

"...Looks great! I like the exciting, narrative-driven approach...." - S. Waldman, PhD, Risk Communicator

"Rick, a nice piece of writing! You have ruined my morning, as I spent most of it reading your book instead of working! The Earth, Water, Air, Fire prism to view the World is a good one, but I will have to read a good deal more of your book to see how you develop the themes...Your book hit the sweet spot. I will be reading more. I hope you start to talk about Thorium energy as a more acceptable alternative..." - T. Herring

"You continue to amaze me! And I thought you were 'just' a fantastic musician. As for the nuclear stuff, you manage to bring it down to a level I can understand. I enjoyed it!"

- J. Dillon

RICK MALTESE is the founder of Energy Reality Project. He has been advocating for the environment for over a decade. His writing has been a primary means of raising awareness, however he doesn't stop there. He is a song-writer and performer. Final Hour is a song he hopes will catch on.

RICK MALTESE ENERGY REALITY

ENERGY REALITY: The Necessary Renaissance

Something worth saving

None of the world's problems will have a solution until the world's individuals become thoroughly self-educated.

Buckminster Fuller